I know they haven't started our landscaping yet and from my understanding the water seeping into our walls will go away. I know we've had a lot of rain the past 2 days, but see the attached pictures.. I am getting EXTREMELY nervous that the water seeping in is about 1" from our breaker box. Water and electric don't mix as you know and I realize I'll probably hear its okay, but I don't think having an electrical fire is a good thing...

Thanks and I just thought I would warn someone. Tomorrow I will call Heartland homes because this is way to close for comfort.
